

Initial /f/ continued

firm fitting fortunate Fahrenheit

Other:

phooey fiddle-faddle

Phil

Family

One, two, three, four, five,
Phil will take a dive
Into the ocean foam
And then he will go home.

In my family there are four,
We feel that four are fine,
But if we had a chance for more
We could find room for nine!

Fanny

Fire

Fanny fell
Fanny fell
Fanny fell down.

Fire, fire, burn bright
I fear a fox is near.

Fanny fell
Fanny fell
Going to town.

Fire, fire, give me light
And fox will disappear.

Funny Fish

Feet

The funny fish in my fishbowl
Hides behind a shell.
He often finds a small peephole
Where he can see me well.

Feet march to a beat.
Feet keep right in step.
Feet go down the street.
Feet have lots of pep!

Fairy Food

Fat Faye

A fairy lives on fairy food
And never asks for bread.
If I could find some fairy food
I think I'd be well fed.

Fat Faye has fun.
She eats her fill
And always will.
Fat Faye has fun.

A Fever

Fat Faye can't run.
She is so wide
From side to side
Fat Faye can't run.

A fever is a bad disease,
It makes you feel so hot.
Sometimes it makes you fuss and sneeze,
Sometimes your face will spot.

Initial /f/ continued

Sentences:

1. I am four feet tall.
2. The farm has a field of oats.
3. The fur of the fox is warm.
4. Don't fib to your father.
5. The fort caught on fire.

Using the word lists for phoneme production as well as for comprehension will provide good practice in expressive speech/language skills. Some examples are included on this page.

People

Could a person be both a father and a farmer? Explain your answer.

Things

Tell me the difference between a finger and a fingernail, and between a finger and a fingerprint.

Places

The state of New York has some lakes called the "Finger Lakes." Would you expect these lakes to be round? Explain your answer.

Food

When I read the list of foods, raise your hand when you hear something that would be a meat or something you might have for dessert. Explain your answers.

Creatures

When I read the words in the list of creatures, raise your hand when you hear something that can fly. Say the word.